POETRY.

THE SWARMING OF THE BEES.

They are come, they are come; yet what brings them here, With smoke around, and with wails so near? Yet there they cling to the golden wand As there were no sunnier garden beyond.

The garden is filled with their drowsy hum!
Oh where is a hive, for the bees are come!

Whence they have wandered I cannot tell, Whence they have wantered I cannot tell,
But I dream me a dream of some lonely dell,
Where violets thick mid the green grass sprung,
Like a purple cloak by a monarch flung.
Our garden now fills with their drowsy hum!
Oh where is a hive, for the bees are come!

Had they grown weary of roses in bloom,
Or the long falling wreaths of the yellow-haired broom!
Of the seringa's pale orange-touched flowers
Of the gardens siar, that they wander to ours!
How pleasant it is with their drowsy hum!
Oh where is a hive, for the bees are come!

Our garden is somewhat pale and lone, And the walls are high, with ivy o'ergrown; And the walls are high, with by beighten,
And the dust of the city lies dark on the rose,
And the lily is almost afraid to unclose.

Yet, welcome the sound of their drowsy hum!
Oh where is a hive, for the bees are come!

The vapours of London float over our head,

The vapours of London hoat over our head,
Yet athwart them the shower and the sunshine are shed;
And cheerful the light of the morning falls
O'er the almond-tree and the ivied walls.
Sweet sounds around it the drowsy hum!
Oh where is a hive, for the bees are come!

We have shrubs that have flourished the summer through-The jessamme hanging like pearls on dew,
The fusia that droops, like the curls of a bride,—
Bells of coral, with Syrian purple inside.

They'll grow more fair, with that drowsy hum!
Oh where is a hive, for the bees are come!

The sun-flower's golden round shall yield Its shining store for their harvest field; We'll plant wild thyme with the April rain,

And teed them till then on the sugar-cane.
Welcome, welcome, their drowsy ham!
Oh where is a hive, for the bees are come!

Richard the Third was re-produced under Elliston's management, with a revision of text, and a total alteration in the usual style of dress. Soane produced his authorities, and Kean jumped about in an iron scull-cap and a 'close-bodied gown, the sleeves curiously cut, looking more like a Tartar amazon than the Richard of our idea. Elliston appeared as Richmond in a new suit of shining armor, and strutted about the stage, grasping a terrific pole-axe and a bright shield,-very much to his own delight, Kean's annoyance, and the amusement of the audience. In the last scene, when Harry Tudor inquires of his friend, Lord Stanley, after his son, the safety of whose head had been threatened by the tyrant, Elliston should have said -

'Pray, tell me, is young George Stanley living?' To which the grateful parent replies-

'He is, my liege, and safe in Leicester town.' Mr Powell, a respectable veteran, played Lord Stanley. He was the usual representative of grey-headed pappies, quiet old guardians, and fifth act uncles. He was always scrupulously perfect, but could no more go out of his way, even to the alteration of a syllable, than he could have walked up a rope stretched from the stage to the gallery, in the style of that god of grace and agility, Herr Cline. Elliston, instead of asking Powell if young Stanley was living, said—

Mr Powell, a respectable stand ley. BAILEY, No. 15 Court Street, has on hand, as splendid an assortment of HATS, CAPS and FURS, as will be found in any store in Boston, which II. B. respectfully invites all in want of any goods in his line to call at his Store, and look for themselves—a splendid lot of Fur Boas constantly on hand—Fur Caps, and Neck Ties, for the ladies' wear—Kid Gloves, Buckskin do, Fur Gloves and Buck lined Mittens—Buckskin Gloves, lined—Hatter's Trimmings, constantly on hand—Silk and Cotton Umbrellas, always on hand—Gold Lace, Silver do—Gold Cord, Silver do—Fancy Ornaments for Caps, &c. young Stanley was living, said-

'Is young George Stanley stain ?' To wich Powell replied, with his usual accuracy : 'He is, my liege and safe in Leicester town.'

The audience roared and Kean, lying on the stage as the dead tyrant, muttered an emphatic oath, which drew the attention of the front rows of the pit.

'He is, my liege, and safe in Leicester town.'

Scientific Discovery.—During the thunder-storm on Friday, the 21st ult., a philosophical cotton-spinner, in Cragg valley, went in high glee to consult his barometer, when lo ! to his great amazement and dismay, he office. found the rebellious quicksilver getting up! In a paroxysm of rage and despair, he actually turned the guilty instrument topsy-turvy, exclaiming, "I am determined we will have rain."

in the West Highlands, who had peculiar opinion touching the 'full assurance of faith,' having occasion to cross a ferry, availed himself of the opportunity to interrogate the boatman as to the grounds of his belief, assuring him that if he had faith he was certain of a blessed immortality, 'The man of the oar said he had always entertained a different notion of the subject, and begged to give an illustration of his opinion. 'Let us suppose. said the ferryman, 'that one of these oars is called faith, and the other works, and try their several merits.' Accordingly, throwing down one oar in the boat, he procceded to pull the other with all his strength, upon which the boat was turned round and made no way. 'Now,' said he, 'you perceive faith wont do-let us try what works can.' Seizing the other oar, and giving it the same trial, the same consequences ensued. 'Works,' said he, 'you see wont do either: let us try them to-The result was successful; the boat shot through the waves, and soon reached the wished-for haven. 'This,' said the honest ferryman, 'is the way by which I hope to be wasted over the troubled waters of this world to the peaceful shores of immortality."--Laird of Logan.

New English Phraseology .- A New England journal, giving an account of the passengers in the Sir W. Scott steamer, destroyed by lightning, has greatly improved on our common newspaper delicacy. In speaking of a lady in the way that "ladies wish to be who love their lords," the Bostonian, still more refined, says, Mrs Hamilton was "in a state of domestic solicitude"!!!

Mr Pocock, the author of the "Miller and his Men," the "Knights of the Round Table," and other dramas, died on the 24th ultimo of apoplexy;—a rare complaint for a dramatic writer in these days. Mr Pocock was, however, the owner of an estate in Berkshire, upon which he lived, and had, consequently, a right to the finale of a gentleman.

Elliston was told of his error. Upon the repetition of the piece, Wilmot, the prompter, cautioned him before he went on, and repeated the words of the line to him that he might impress them upon his memory: 'Not slain, Sir, but living, —young Stanley was not killed.'
'No, no, —I know, Sir, —I know,' said Elliston: 'd'ye think me drunk, or a fool?' On he went, and enquired of the elder Stanley if his son was —missing, and Powell answered, with painful correctness:

'He is, my liege, and safe in Leicester town.'

MASSACHUSETTS LEGISLATURE.

The Warren Bridge Bill .- This Bill appears to be treated as if it were merely a legislative shuttlecock, instead of innvolving considerations of vital and absorbing interest to a large portion of the community .-Ten days ago, the Bill was sent back to the Senate by the House, with an amendment consisting of two additional sections, the effect of which, if finally adopted, will be to render the Warren Bridge free, as soon as the tolls collected thereon shall amount to a capital sufficient to yield an interest equal to the annual expense of superintending it and keeping it in repair. The Senate non-concurred in these amendments of the House, and, after engrafting other amendments on the Bill, returned it to the House, which voted te adhere to its own amendments, by a much greater majority than they were originally carried by. Committees of Conference were then appointed, the result of which, on Friday, was-that the Senate voted to recede from its former vote of non-concurrence, in the amendments of the House ; but on Saturday, this vote was re-considered, on motion of Mr Dexter, and the question being then re-taken, upon the Senate's adherence to their original vote of non-concurrence in the amendments of the House, it was decided in the affirmative, by a vote of-Yeas, 12-Nay, 10. General Austin, of Charlestown, then gave notice that he should move for a re-consideration of this vote, on Monday (to-day.) The ordinary course of proceeding, when a Senator gives such notice, that he intends on a succeeding day, to move for a re-consideration, is for the Clerk to retain the bill, and not transmit it to the other branch of the Legislature; but, in this case, after General Austin had announced his intention, a motion was made, that the Clerk should be peremptorily directed to carry the bill down to the House forthwith. A few of the opponents of the Warren Bridge, however, shrunk back from the barefaced proposition, and, by their votes, turned the balance against the motion, which was consequently lost by a majority of three. Several Senators from Middlesex and Essex, friendly to a free bridge, were absent. Had they been present, the question of nonconcurrence would have been decided in the negative.

Should each branch persist in adhering to its present vote, till the end of the session, the tolls must necessarily cease on the Warren Bridge, after that period; but the friends of the bridge would prefer that it should become free by the effect of a new and express law, rather than by an omission on the part of the present legislature to act definitively upon the subject.

Bar-Rules .- On Tuesday last, the House, on motion of Mr Rantoul, voted, respecting the admission of attornies and counsellors, to practice in our Courts of Law, that any person, of good moral character, over twenty-one years of age, might, upon filing an application with the Clerk of any Court, practice law therein. On Friday, the House re-considered this vote by a very great majority, but substituted no other regulation in its place: and on Saturday, Mr Foster, of Brimfield, introduced two propositions of a medium character :one, that any person, producing a certificate from a counsellor, or attorney that he has studied law three years shall, upon application, be admitted to practice law in any of our Courts. The second proposition is -that any person, not having studied three years, who shall produce a recommendation from a Counsellor or attorney, may petition the Court, to be examined, by persons appointed by the Court, and if found qualified by such examiners, may be admitted to practice law. Mr Rantoul opposed these amendments, upon the ground, they would continue to constitute the bar a close corporation, by giving to the members the exdusive power to admit or reject candidates for the profession. Mr Robinson, the original and successful agitator of the question, also spoke against the amendment; but, after a desultory debate, it was carried by a'majority of twenty-nine.

Forgery .- A man by the name by Nathaniel Freeman, was detected in New York on Wednesday, in an ingenious but unsuccessful forgery. He gave a ltttle boy, whom he met in the street, a shilling to take the following note to Mr John Rankin, and return to him at a designated place :-

"New York, 28th Oct., 1835. My Dear Sir-You will particularly oblige me to send me $1,000 or $1,200 till to-morrow. I want it ARTHUR TAPPAN & Co. P. S. I have just received a letter of thrilling interest on the great cause, which I wish to show you this afternoon if you are at leisure. A. T. & Co." Mr Rankin, suspecting that all was not right, returned the following reply :-"New York, Wednesday morning. Dear Sirs-I am very busily engaged now, but I will see you in about an hour. Yours, &c. JOHN RANKIN.

Messrs. Arthur Tappan & Co."

Mr R. and a friend then followed the boy, and arrested the individual to whom he delivered the note .-The parties then adjourned to the police office, where, upon searching Freeman, wafers were found in his pocket, exactly corresponding with the one with which the note was sealed, and another forged note, as follows:

"Messrs. Brown, Brothers & Co .- Gentlemen, will you please to lend me about $1,000 or $1,200 till to-Yours, &c.

Freeman was then committed, but subsequently set at liberty on $1000 bail-he is a member of Dr Spring's Church, and was formerly a resident in this city, where he held the office of deputy sheriff.

The Bridge over the Potomac river, at the city of Washington, has been opened for travel.

Mr and Mrs Ternan finished their engagement at the Tre mont on Friday evening, which was announced as his benefit night. "Much Ado About Nothing" and "Clari" composed the bill of entertainment. Mrs Ternan's Beatrice was the perfection of the character-vivacious, determined, graceful -not a boisterous romp, as it is sometimes rendered, with an impudent and vulgar pertness-but the high spirited, genous, and eccentric, but well bred, LADY. Indeed, we neve saw Mrs T. in any character where she did not appear give it an elevation beyond the author's conception. Her mirth in comedy is always easy and natural-calling our good aumor into action by exciting a sympathy unconsciou awakened, until we find ourselves under the complete co trol of her own happy spirit-but it is in pourtraying the deep pathos of wounded feelings that she excels-the remors of Clari-the strong and successful struggle of virtue agains the temptations of vice-the pure affections of the heartfilial love, and all those finer sentiments which excite the most tender and thrilling emotions-in scenes of this descrip tion she has no equal in America, and all those who beheld the last interview between Rolamo and Clari on Friday evening, we venture to say, will bear us out in the assertion Mr Ternan's Benedict we did not like very well-his manner was measured and monotonous-altogether too crank-his voice, in attempting to utter the soft tones of a lover, could not break from its natural bass, and so halted between a queak and a sigh-if he were more flexible in his action, le stately in his bearing, and played more to the stage and less to the audience, we suspect he would increase the number his admirers; but in Rolamo he made amends for his Benedict -there he was at home, and almost blotted from our memory the defects of his performance in the first piece. Mr T. certainly an actor of superior merit, and in many parts, is not urpassed by any performer upon the boards of the United States; but Benedict is not one of them. Mr Smith's Claudio was very tame and inefficient-scarcely passable. Mr Gilbert n Leonato performed better than any other male in the cast. The remainder of the personations were so-so, except Mr Johnson's Dogberry, which was given with unusual cleverness. Mr Rice is the worst drunkard we ever saw, and Mr Lewis as good a one-there is something irresistibly comic about little Lewis, occasionally-if he would only come out from behind his nose once in a while the audience could judge of him more correctly. Mrs Lewis was somewhat too lofty in her carriage, and moved with a swing rather too majestic for an old peasant's wife, and a broken hearted mother, unless it be true what honest Jack said, that grief puffs one up.

Among the deserving members of the Tremont corps who re seldom publicly noticed, is Mr Leman-he is always perfect and prompt in the discharge of his duties, and we know of no individual among his associates who does what is set down for him more acceptably than Mr L. We are pleased to witness his gradual improvement and advancement in his profession, and hope he will receive that encouragement his industry, fidelity, and talents, entitle him to, from the comnunity he labors to please. There are some things about the Tremont management which have had a tendency to cool the ardor of many of its former well wishers, the effect of which we think is already perceptible, and probably will be still more visible in time to come; but the liberal patronage bestowed upon this establishment, despite of these facts, is convincing proof of the almost unlimited favor it would receive under other circumstances, or the abundant support another House of equal magnitude would enjoy, freed from the objections which operate against the Tremont. It has been intimated, we know not upon what ground, that Mr Pelby intends to erect, very soon, a Theatre upon a larger and more magnificent scale than any that has ever been built in Bostonshould this rumor prove true, and Mr P. execute his design, we think there can be no doubt of his ample and speedy re muneration for his expense and labor-we hope the report is correct, and that we shall see in the course of the next, or the succeeding season, one theatre, at least, of the first class in the United States, under American management, and well filled with American actors.

Mr Wallack, known here for many years as an excellent nelo-dramatic actor, commences an engagement at the Tremont this evening. We hope that he will be more successful here than he was at Baltimore.

The chief difficulty which M. The fermentation in Madrid is described as having been extreme. A new junta had been formed at Valencia, of which Lopez, the deputy, was a member, and over which the Conde de

The despatch is dated on the 26th, from Narbonne, and it intimates that new disturbances were feared at Barcelona. A letter of the 19th, from Valencia, is also quoted in the Moniteur, stating that after a commotion in that city, the Conde de Almodovar, had been compelled to seek refuge on shipboard. Armed peasants to the number of 1,500, had entered the town on the 18th, and pillage was appre-

Shocking Outrage .- Mr John W. Bray, was lately knocked down in Elizabethtown, (N. J.) by three brothers, named Taylor, one of his ears cropped, and several stabs inflicted on his right arm-the villains, armed with knives, resisted an officer who was present, and finally succeeded in escaping out of the jurisdiction of the county, in a carriage hired for the purpose. The miserable pretext for the infamous outrage was, that Bray had, by means of endorsements, involved his brotherin-law, the father of these lawless youngsters, who have thus sought revenge. Having reached home, they openly justify the act, and defy the consequences-but we trust they will be held to answer for their villainy.

The aristocratic party are determined to subjugate, and the republican to sustain, Texas. He predicts the destruction of Cos and his invading army. Singular Attempt at Abduction .- The Selectmen of West Springfield have offered a reward of $500 for the person who attempted the abduction of a young girl from the family of Mr Day, on Monday night of last week. The house of Mr Day was entered by the person, the girl taken from her bed, carried through two or three rooms out doors, when she awoke and found herself in the arms of the villain. She attempted to cry out, but the wretch thrust a handkerchief into her mouth and stifled her cries by grasping her throat.— She succeeded however in alarming her father, who ran to her assistance and saw the person making his escape. This transaction has created a great deal of interest in this vicinity. When we first heard the rumor of this attempted abduction we were inclined to believe it a case of somnambulism, but on learning that the father of the child, saw the person in his flight, and that her neck bore strong marks of violence, no doubt was left of the fact. We hope the villain will be detected and punished according to his deserts .- Spring field Whig.

NEW ENGLAND CROWN GLASS.—The New England Crown Glass Company have recently erected a new turnace and are manufacturing an excellent article. Their Crown Glass is thick, pure and of excellent color. Its thickness gives it an advantage over all thin glass, which is limble to crack from contraction in cold weather. Its surface not being polished after being blown, retains its enamel, brilliancy and hardness, and is not liable to the objection which applies to Plate Glass, of being easily and permanently bedimmed by dust.

The New England Crown Glass being purer in color than any other Glass, is preferable for Stores, as it does not tinge the rays of light as they pass through it, and therefore white goods particularly appear to advantage; and it is peculiarly useful for Factories, as some minutes of light may be gained morning and evening, in consequence of the absence of color in this glass. The price of second quality is reduced from the rates heretofore asked.

rates heretofore asked.

Those who wish to contract for this Glass are requested to specify New England Crown Glass. As much imposition has been practised by dealers in Glass, by deceptive marks on boxes and other artifices, any purchaser who may apprehend he has been imposed upon is invited by letter or personally to apply to the subscriber for any information he may wish to enable him to detect the deception. Orders sent to the undersigned, at Boston or East Cambridge, or to any at the Company's Selling Agents, will be promptly attended to. DAVIS'S CHEMICAL VEGETABLE Liquid Oil Soap.

THIS article, by a proper application, removes grease spots and all other substances, from Carpets, Woollen, Cotton and Linen Garments of every description, without injuring in the least the color or texture of the goods. It restores them to their original lustre, and may be used with perfect safety, even on the finest fabrics. It is particularly recommended for cleansing Coat Collars, so apt to become soiled by the hair. It is also extremely useful in all cases of Sprains, Bruises, Corns and Rheumatism. It is likewise a remedy for Scalds or Burns of any description, relieving the pain and effecting a cure more readily than any article hitherto used for the purpose. Ample directions for its application, in all cases, will be found on each bottle.

There is so much convenience and economy in its use, that no person, having once tried it and ascertained its virtues, would ever afterwards be without it.

The above article for sale by WM. C. STIMPSON & CO., No 3, South side Faneuil Hall.

ADAMS'S PATENT SWELLED

THE subscriber has on hand a good assortment of the Swelled Beam Windlazs Bedsteads, which, for comfort and convenience is undoubtedly the best article yet invented; its chief peculiarity is that of the Swelled Beam, the effect of which is to produce a crowning, and elastic sacking, and effectually provides against its saging. They are easily set up or taken down, and may be saved in case of fire as easily as any other piece of furniture, and from its mode of construction less hable to harbor insects than any other kind; but above all its advantages is the ease and comfort obtained from the sacking, by means of its being made and kept elastic by means of the Swelled Beam, (the form of which is exhibited in the N.B. Those gentlemen who wish, can furnish their own cloth—and all garments are warranted to fit and to be made in cloth—and all garments are warranted to fit and to be made in a workmanlike manner. is&os3m-o1
